

Hygiene and testing concept for journalists during the G7 Summit

It is important to the Federal Government to create the safest possible environment for all participants of the G7 Summit and to prevent or reduce any spread of the virus among those involved during the meeting. In order to achieve this and support infection control, testing for SARS-CoV-2 infection will be a key element of the comprehensive hygiene concept, carried out in close coordination with the local authority responsible, namely the District Office of Garmisch-Partenkirchen. In addition to general hygiene and infection control measures, the following guidelines also provide details of how testing will be implemented.

Arrival

Before entering the infrastructure for the first time, media representatives – like the delegations themselves – are required to show proof of a negative PCR test which was taken no more than 48 hours previously.

See under “Testing strategy” for details.

General hygiene measures

In order to ensure the G7 Summit runs smoothly, everyone involved is required to observe and implement the following measures responsibly for their own safety and that of others:

- A minimum distance of 1.5 metres is to be observed from other participants wherever possible.
- Wearing an FFP2 mask is strongly recommended indoors and in areas where the required minimum distance cannot be maintained.
- Wearing an FFP2 mask is compulsory in the transport vehicles provided, at Schloss Elmau and the retreat, at the Briefing Centre, at the live announcer points and at the press area for arrivals at Munich airport.
- Care should be taken to wash and disinfect one’s hands regularly.
- Handshakes should be avoided as far as possible, as should contacts that are not absolutely necessary.
- Coughing and sneezing etiquette is to be observed.
- In case of cold symptoms or symptoms that potentially indicate a coronavirus infection, you are urged to contact the Bavarian Red Cross medical service at one of the hygiene and first-aid stations without delay.

Any changes to the measures will be announced promptly as appropriate.

Testing strategy

A thorough testing concept will be implemented in order to counteract the spread of the SARS-CoV-2 virus as effectively as possible. The aim is to provide access to the Summit for all participants – regardless of vaccination or recovery status – and ensure equal conditions for all.

In addition to the PCR test requirement on arrival (see above), everyone will be required to take a lateral flow test on a daily basis in the period from 25 to 28 June 2022 (under the Federal Government's free public testing programme): the aim here is to enable the media to go about their work while still ensuring full protection. Tests can be taken at municipal test centres. This also applies to the press area for arrivals at Munich airport. Everyone must carry a test certificate with them at all times that is no older than 24 hours.

Please note that it is only possible to enter the infrastructure provided, such as the International Media Centre, with proof of a negative test result. Without this, access cannot be granted.

The aim is to ensure that potential infections can be identified and isolated before they become contagious. If everyone plays their part, it will be possible to minimise the risk of passing on infections as effectively as possible.

The lateral flow test can be taken anywhere as long as the required documentation can be provided. Here is a list of local test centres in Garmisch-Partenkirchen:

What to do in the event of a positive test result

Anyone testing positive on site immediately before or during the days of the Summit itself must isolate immediately – complying with the general rules regarding social distancing, face coverings – and must not enter or must immediately leave the infrastructure and connected areas provided for the Summit.

The public health department will deploy an outbreak and investigation team on a round-the-clock basis to trace infected individuals and contact persons as quickly as possible.

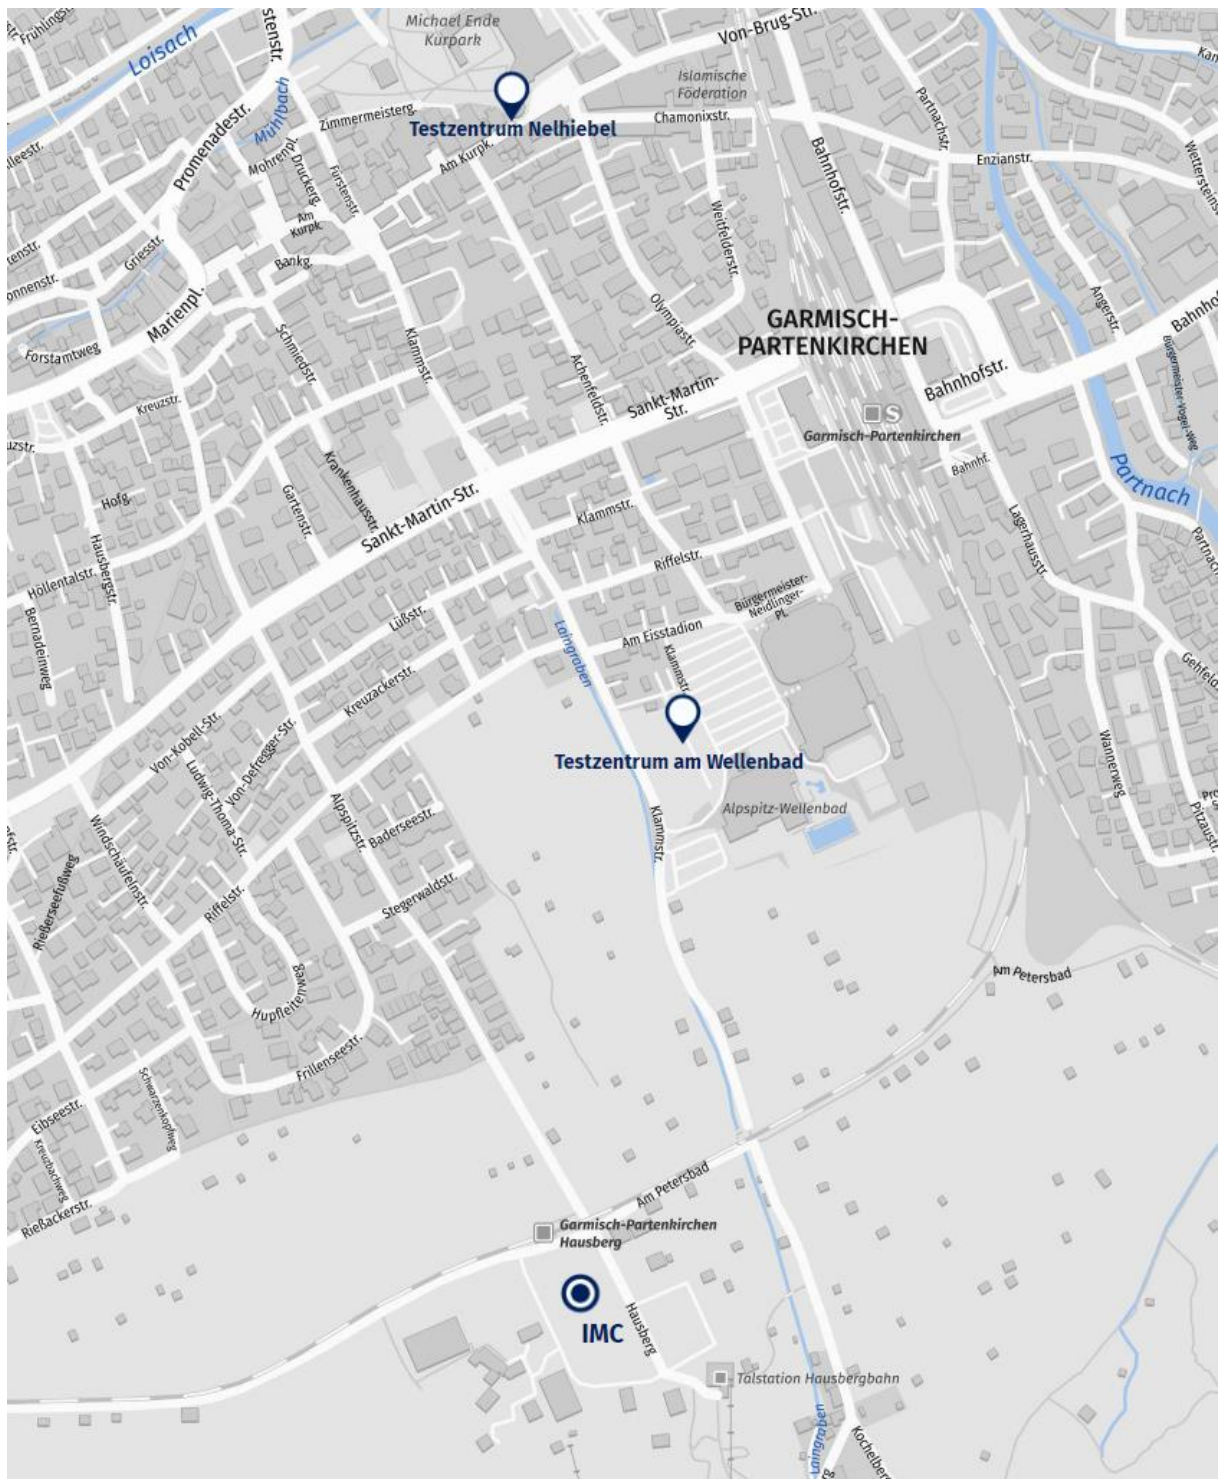

Note: Testing has no effect on accreditation and is independent of it.
